CHANGING LIVES AND STRENGTHENING COMMUNITIES
Working with local, state, and national criminal justice organizations to improve public safety and the delivery of justice

We partner with local, state, and national criminal justice organizations on projects encompassing adult and juvenile criminal justice reform, improving corrections, particularly around the use of restrictive housing; juvenile reform; and advancing evidence-based practices to improve safety and promote fairness in justice systems while reducing costs.

Mental health in the South Dakota justice system
In March, South Dakota held its biennial public safety conference in which the annual conference focused on the mental health needs of individuals involved in the criminal justice system. The conference featured a variety of speakers discussing the importance of addressing mental health needs in the criminal justice system.

CRJ and the Pew Charitable Trusts partnered to provide technical assistance to the Missouri Department of Corrections in order to improve outcomes for incarcerated individuals with mental illness. The collaboration resulted in the creation of a mental health initiative that aims to improve the delivery of mental health services to those in the criminal justice system.

Improving outcomes for truly truly
The Midwest has been identified as a region with a high concentration of individuals with mental illness who are involved in the criminal justice system. CRJ has been working with local and state partners to develop and implement evidence-based programs that can help reduce recidivism and improve outcomes for individuals with mental illness.
